

«...Let me express my gratitude to you and people you were inspired by and all those who organized the international seminar “Russian and European experience in quality assurance of higher education: on the way to integration”.

First of all, I'd like to underline a special significance of the topics for discussion and a high level of the reports. The diversity of the formats (master-classes, video-calls, video addresses, round tables, discussions etc.) allowed the participants to acquire the contents of the reports effectively.

I would like to point out outstanding reporters: heads of HEIs and leading national centers and agencies of quality assurance of professional education, international accreditation and quality assurance agencies. It is remarkable that the participants had the opportunity to get well-worked analytical materials and a great volume of first-hand information about different aspects of higher education quality assurance.

Especially I am thankful to Dr. Zaurbek Saidov, the head of the Chechen State University, Dr. Malika Buralova, Deputy Head of the Chechen State University, and to all the members of the Organizing committee for their attentiveness and hospitality, comfort and warm ambience that contributed to the success in achieving the aims by the seminar participants.

Events of such a high level are of great importance as they give the opportunity to demonstrate to the international professional community our national approach to education quality evaluation.

With appreciation,

Anna Alyabyeva, Doctor of Arts
